LEADER TO DA NANG

... Armed Showdown Seems Near

SAIGON (AP)—Premier Nguyen Cao Ky flew to Da Nang, Tuesday, apparently to take personal command of a drive to control the rebellious northern city.

Shortly after, a dispatch from Da Nang said the commander of Viet Nam's 1st Corps, Maj. Gen. Nguyen Van Chau—who apparently decided to back Ky's antagonists—drove to Da Nang Air Base to confer with Ky.

Opponents Marshal
As troops loyal to Ky continued to land at the U.S. South Vietnamese air base near Da Nang, Ky's opponents marshaled their own forces. Rebel troops dug in along the two main roads leading to the air base.

A dispatch from Da Nang said rebel authorities appeared confident they could withstand an assault by government troops.

In Saigon, also torn by severe antigovernment rioting Monday, a curfew was imposed on all Vietnamese, beginning Tuesday night and extending indefinitely. The curfew covers the surrounding Gia Dinh province. Antagonism toward the United States appeared to be sharpening.

U.S. military authorities so far have not imposed a curfew on American personnel, but Monday "advised" Americans to remain off the streets and to stay away from public places.

This in itself constituted a curfew of sorts.

Red Alert

U.S. personnel at Da Nang Air Base were on red alert with orders to stay clear of any Vietnamese showdown fight. The red alert, which under war conditions means that an attack is imminent, requires all military personnel to stay where they are.

Ky claimed Sunday that Da Nang was in communist hands. Da Nang city authorities indignantly denied this charge and predicted that the Ky government would be overthrown.

There were scattered antigovernment demonstrations inside Da Nang Tuesday morning. At one point, Vietnamese rangers held back demonstrators converging on 1st Corps headquarters.

When they stopped the demonstrators, it seemed they might be loyal to Ky, but an officer explained later he was supporting embattled Mayor Nguyen Van Man, told newsman Monday night he had Chau's full support.

The rangers also frisked demonstrators in line with Man's declaration that Viet Cong elements in the city would be eradicated.

Vietnamese sources said there was street fighting Monday night in Tam Ky, 40 miles south of Da Nang. A strike has been under way there since Ky last month dismissed Maj. Gen. Nguyen Chanh Thi as 1st Corps commander.

While U.S. officials had said no U.S. planes would take part in any movement of South Vietnamese troops in the Da Nang situation, U.S. military informants in Da Nang said that at the request of Ky's government some airlift capability for the movement of troops was being provided.

Elsewhere, U.S. military personnel followed through with air operations on the ground and in the air. All were under orders to fight the communists and stay out of the political troubles facing Ky's 9-month-old regime.

The Viet Cong appeared to be lying low, watching the political developments.

U.S. forces made four major ground sweeps but met little resistance, and U.S. warplanes carried out 72 air strikes against North Viet Nam.

In contrast to South Viet Nam's population of 14.5 million, only a fraction are actively participating in the demonstrations—perhaps less than one per cent.

In Washington, U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk expressed the opinion that the civil strife stemmed at least in part from contending groups trying to carve out for themselves guaranteed roles in a future civilian government.

The demonstrators' complaints against the United States have not involved U.S. efforts in the war against the communists but rather U.S. political support of Ky.

The agitation actually centers on demands for a speed-up in plans to bring a civilian back to power.

Council To Visit Coast, Debate Job Corps Again

By BOB SCHREFF
Star Staff Writer

The City Council late Monday night decided to postpone support of a Job Corps training center at Lincoln Air Force Base until members visit the Camp Parks center near San Francisco, Calif.

The council trip, scheduled tentatively for Thursday and Friday, will be at the invitation and expense of the federal Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO), parent Job Corps agency.

The California site was chosen because federal officials say it is comparable to the operation proposed by Northern Natural Gas Co., as prime contractor, and the University of Nebraska. Camp Parks is one of the older Job Corps centers, said Councilman John Mason.

Mason, who urged other council members to see firsthand a Job Corps operation, and Mayor Dean Petersen have previously visited camps in Kentucky and New Jersey and reported their reaction as favorable.

Necessary
Council members said the trip was necessary before endorsement of the Job Corps in Lincoln can be given.

The decision followed a lengthy public hearing at which support and opposition to the proposed 1,500-man center here struck an almost even balance.

The hearing was held on a resolution throwing council support behind the recommendations of the Lincoln Opportunity Team and the Lincoln Airport Authority that negotiations continue between Northern and the OEO.

Mayor Dean Petersen commented that the council delay might hold up the negotiations because "they had figured on signing a contract by April 15."

The base property might also be declared surplus by the General Services Administration the same day, Petersen said, a condition necessary before the base lease can be terminated or modified.

Council members made it clear that lease negotiations must be satisfactorily terminated before full acceptance of the Job Corps would be forthcoming.

Asks Endorsement
Director-designate of the proposed Job Corps center, J. O. Grantham of Northern Natural, opened the hearing before a packed council chamber by requesting "endorsement of the Job Corps concept depending on satisfactory conclusion of lease negotiations."

He reiterated the often-repeated stand that Northern and the University "believe it is to the economic and social advantage to locate a center at Lincoln Air Force Base."

Grantham attempted to dispel apprehension about the social consequences of a Job Corps center. He told the council, "Corpsmen are not the wild delinquents we worried about."

Trainees will be indoctrinated on the behavior expected of them upon arrival, he said.

"The program is designed for seven days a week, 24 hours a day. This does not mean that they will be turned loose at 5 p.m. to wander out indiscriminately. They will get passes to town as they earn them," he said.

Other points made by Grantham:

—As high as 50% of the trainees could be non-white, and the 600-man staff "will complement the ratio of the corpsmen."

—If five to seven per cent of these men become employed, taxpayer citizens, the program will break even economically. These young men will be prevented from becoming welfare burdens for the state.

Some of the opposition centered on the charge that there has been no attempt by responsible parties to develop the base property for industry.

'Team Has Failed'
John Campbell, department store executive, said that the Lincoln Opportunity Team "has failed to do its job by not making known the availability of our resources to the industry of the United States."

"There is no doubt that adequate steps could have been taken to sell this property to industry. We should use the base for the long-term benefit of Lincoln and not the short-term benefit of the Job Corps," said Campbell.

Others also questioned what they called the lack of city action in contacting industrial prospects, while a majority of the 11 persons who addressed the council in opposition to the Job Corps proposal argued that help from disadvantaged youth should be initiated at the local level.

Insurance Don Parker, current president of the Chamber of Commerce but speaking as a private citizen, told the council that possibly 25% of Job Corps graduates might remain in the Lincoln area.

"We would be bringing in around 375 under-educated, low income people—third and fourth generation welfare cases—who might be marrying into our daughters. I would hate to have it my responsibility if even one of our girls got into serious trouble because of the Job Corps," he said.

9-1 Against
Parker recommended that "in the interests of a good city, we find something of a permanent duration."

Phone calls to him from businessmen have run 9-1 against the Job Corps, Parker said.

Support for the Job Corps came from 14 persons representing themselves and various church and social action organizations throughout the community.

Most underscored the economic advantage of the proposed center to Lincoln and "Nebraska's traditional willingness to give youth a second chance."

Several persons alleged that much of the opposition to the Job Corps is rooted in racial intolerance. "By saying 'yes' to the Job Corps, you will say 'no' to prejudice," said Unitarian minister Rev. Charles Stephen, adding that "because I favor the philosophy of the Job Corps, I favor it here."

Mouse Swiped Teeth; Council Awards New Set

Bolton, England (AP)—The health council of Bolton, England, reported Monday it had won public support for giving a new set of false teeth to an elderly man who said his had been stolen by mice.

At first the council was inclined to be skeptical, but granted him a free replacement on hardship grounds. The usual charge is five pounds ($14). Then letters telling of similar experiences came rolling in, including one from the United States.

Mrs. James Benway, who runs a beauty shop in Strawn, Ill., wrote that her mother-in-law lost her false teeth to mice because of her fondness for caramels.

"We figure that candy which was probably left on the teeth was what attracted the mouse," Mrs. Benway wrote.

Many taxpayers have two federal income tax returns to choose from—the card Form 1040A and Form 1040.

Florida Twisters Leave 9 Dead

Tampa, Fla. (AP)—Tornadoes—spanned by an ocean storm—streaked across Florida's midsection Monday.

Nine persons were known dead, more than 300 injured, hundreds homeless and officials indicated the tolls might go much higher as rescuers dug through twisted and shattered buildings.

Property damage was estimated in the millions. Sections of six cities were left looking like battlefields—homes demolished or badly damaged, trees uprooted, telephone and power lines down, autos overturned.

Gov. Haydon Burns declared Polk and Hillsborough Counties disaster areas and sent in the National Guard and all available state troops to help search for survivors and guard against looting.

The twisters first struck Tampa and St. Petersburg, on the Gulf of Mexico, then marched inland through Lakeland and several other smaller communities all the way to Cocoa, on the Atlantic coast near Cape Kennedy.

Three of the known deaths were in Tampa, the state's second largest city with a population of 274,000. Three were confirmed in Lakeland, a city of about 42,000.

Between 30 and 50 students were injured when the roof was torn from Southwest Junior High School in Lakeland.

More than 90 persons were injured in Cocoa as a twister ripped through a shopping center and six trailer courts, tumbling the mobile homes like matchsticks.

190 Injuries
More than 100 persons were injured at Lakeland and about 90 at Auburndale, a few miles to the west. Damage in those communities and at nearby Winter Haven was extensive.

Dozens of homes in a fashionable residential section on the north side of Tampa were demolished or badly damaged.

About 40 homes were damaged in St. Petersburg. Early reports from Hillsborough and Polk Counties indicated heavy looting in some areas and many deaths.

One of those who escaped death was Audrey Smith, 13, who was home alone in Lakeland.

'It Blew Apart'
The wind started blowing stones against the windows," she said. "I went to the phone to call my mother, but the phone went dead. Then the whole house blew apart."

She suffered only cuts and bruises.

More than 30 planes were tossed about and splintered at the Lakeland airport.

The Cape Kennedy space center was not hit directly by a tornado, but wind gusts were clocked at 70 miles an hour.

A guard shack at the Cape's south gate was flattened, an unused Polaris missile service tower blown over and some antennas knocked down. Otherwise, damage at the Cape was minor.

Weather Delays Stargazer Again

Cape Kennedy, Fla. (AP)—A line of squalls and tornadoes sweeping a cross Florida's midsection Monday forced another postponement of the launching of an orbiting astronomical observatory.

The telescope-equipped satellite, designed to give astronomers their first undistorted look at the stars, had been scheduled to go aloft in mid-afternoon. It was the fourth postponement due to weather and technical trouble.

Bond Issue Could Be Necessary If Court Kills Higher County Valuation

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

If the Supreme Court should declare unconstitutional the decision of the State Board of Equalization to increase real estate valuations in Lancaster County, a special bond issue might be necessary to refund 1965 collected taxes.

Assuming that all 1965 taxes are paid, figures obtained from Lancaster County Treasurer C. E. Berg reveal that approximately $3 million would have to be refunded if the entire 28% city and 15% rural valuation increases are found unreasonable as Lancaster County contends.

According to Berg, the approximate refunds, if directed, would be $2,890,200 on city property and $254,200 on rural property.

Due to the increased valuation, Lancaster County's levy was reduced from 67.880 mills in 1964 to 63.424 in 1965.

Considering the mill levy drop and the increased valuation, a city resident who, for example, paid $100 in county taxes in 1964, paid $119.60 in 1965.

Because of the mill levy drop, Berg explained that a total refund of 28% to this hypothetical person would be $26.16 or $5.56 more than his total increase over the previous year.

This figure is arrived at by assuming that $119.60 equals 128% of 1964 taxes and 100% of this would be $93.40 and the other 28% is the remaining $26.16.

A hypothetical rural resident example is difficult to determine since school levies vary considerably by district. Berg said refunding the money could present a problem since the money which has been collected has already been used and is not available for refunds. For this reason, a bond issue might be the only solution.

Lancaster County will plead its appeal of the increase before the Supreme Court Tuesday and a ruling is expected within 30 to 60 days.

New Restrictions Put On State 'Red' Probes

Washington (AP)—The Supreme Court set new limits Monday on subversive activities investigations by the states, ruling they cannot probe into past associations "at will and without relation to existing need."

An overriding and compelling state interest must be shown to "warrant intrusion into the realm of political and associational privacy protected by the 1st Amendment," Justice William O. Douglas wrote as the court threw out a New Hampshire bookkeeper's contempt conviction.

The bookkeeper, Hugo DeGregory of Hudson, N.H., called before the state attorney general in 1963, said he was not a member of the Communist Party and was not a member in 1957, when the state enacted its antisubversives law.

But he refused to answer questions concerning earlier periods and was judged in contempt in the Merrimack County Superior Court and sentenced to one year in prison.

In reversing the judgment by a 6-3 vote, the Supreme Court said investigation, as a part of lawmaking, "may properly probe historic events for any light that may be thrown on present conditions and problems."

But, Douglas said also for the high court, "the present record is devoid of any evidence that there is any Communist movement in New Hampshire" and the state, therefore, may not "override the guarantee of the 1st Amendment that a person can speak or not, as he chooses, free of all governmental compulsion."

In a 1955 report by the state attorney general, DeGregory was said to have been listed in 1946 by the Communist Party of New England as secretary-treasurer.

It also said the House American Activities Committee reported that DeGregory was the Communist Party candidate for lieutenant governor of Massachusetts in 1940.

Justices John M. Harlan, Potter Stewart and Byron R. White dissented from Monday's action.

Speaking for them, Harlan said the state "should be free to investigate the existence or nonexistence of Communist Party subversion or any other legitimate subject of concern to the state."

In another action the court said it would not review the disorderly conduct convictions of 11 persons associated with the Congress on Racial Equality who demonstrated Aug. 1, 1963, at a public housing construction site on New York City's Lower East Side.

Goodyear Spending Maintained In '66

Akron, Ohio (AP)—Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. stockholders were told Monday that the firm's capital expenditure authorizations this year will run about the same as last year's record $195 million.

Russell DeYoung, chairman and chief executive officer, also reported at the annual shareholders' meeting that sales and earnings for the first quarter are expected to exceed those for the record-breaking first quarter of 1965. Final figures for the three months ended March 31 are not available, he added.

DeYoung said two-thirds of the funds authorized for capital expenditures this year will be for expansion and new facilities, the remaining one-third for new methods, quality improvement, research and development, and modernization.

"Some 60% will be spent in the United States; 40% will be invested throughout the rest of our worldwide operations," he said.

He explained that expansions abroad would be made in accordance with President Johnson's balance-of-payments guidelines.

DeYoung said Goodyear now has nine new plants under construction and that most of them will be in operation by the end of this year.

Three are tire plants — located in Danville, Va.; Morant Bay, Jamaica; and Melbourne, Australia. New industrial products plants are being built at Collingwood, Ont., and Craigavon, Ireland.

The other four include a reinforced plastics plant at Jackson, Ohio; a shoe products plant at Madisonville, Ky.; a passenger wheel plant at Chatham, Ont., and a foam products plant at Owen Sound, Ont.

The Lincoln Goodyear plant began a 5-year $3 million expansion program in 1964 to increase plant space by 125,000 square feet and result in 300 more employees by 1970. In 1965, nearly 28,000 square feet were added to the plant and early this year it was announced 45,000 square feet would be added.

The Lincoln payroll in 1965 totaled $7.8 million, up almost $500,000 from 1964. Goodyear employs about 1,200 workers here.

Credit Growth Slower

Washington (AP)—A slowdown in the growth of consumer installment credit was reported for February by the Federal Reserve Board Monday.

The increase was $537 million, smallest since November 1964.

The slower rate of rise, welcomed by officials who have feared an inflationary overheating of the economy, was particularly noticeable in personal loans and installment buying of consumer goods other than automobiles.

But the board said that new extensions of installment credit in all classes of loans were below those of January, after seasonal adjustment.

Repayments on auto loans rose substantially, after seasonal adjustment. For other types of loans they either held steady or declined slightly, the board said.

Noninstallment credit rose $120 million in February, a somewhat smaller increase than in the preceding month. Total consumer credit at the end of February amounted to $84.6 billion.

Their partnership ended Sunday with the death of Crouse. He was 73. He died in St. Luke's Hospital of pneumonia and complications.

The one exception to Crouse's telegrams was "Life with Father," because Lindsay played the lead role of the father. Lindsay's wife, Dorothy Stickney, was the mother.

(Crouse's sister, the late Mrs. Charles (Grace "Flapper") Wilson was at one time society editor of The Lincoln Star. She was prominent in social and civic affairs.)

Crouse and Lindsay brought admiration and joy to millions of theatergoers from the time they first united their writing talents in 1934 with "Anything Goes" until their last show, the 1959 hit musical "Sound of Music."

Hit Play Collaborator Crouse Dies

... SISTER WAS STAR'S SOCIETY EDITOR

New York (AP)—Russell Crouse always was in the theater on opening night to send telegrams on the progress of their show to his writing partner, Howard Lindsay, at home.

The telegrams, filled with wit, often would come at 15-minute intervals to cheer up Lindsay, who feared watching the reaction of the first-night audience.

The telegrams, of course, mostly brought word of a box office success because Lindsay and Crouse were Broadway's most famous show-writing team for 32 years.

BRITISH WARSHIP INTERCEPTS GREEK TANKER

London (AP)—A British warship intercepted a Greek tanker believed to be carrying oil to Rhodesia in defiance of an international embargo, but the tanker's master refused to change course, the foreign office said Tuesday.

The interception took place on the approaches to Beira, the Portuguese Mozambique port through which landlocked Rhodesia normally received oil supplies.

A foreign office spokesman said the master of the 12,920-ton Joanna chartered to a South African firm, agreed to receive a British officer aboard after the frigate Plymouth had intercepted his ship. The spokesman later announced that the tanker refused to change course.

"A most serious situation would arise" if the tanker discharged its 12,000-ton cargo in defiance of the U.N. ban on Rhodesian oil shipments, the British announcement said.

London imposed economic sanctions, including the oil ban, after the Rhodesian government seized independence from Britain last Nov. 11 to retain its white minority rule. The U.N. Security Council subsequently backed British efforts to topple the Rhodesian government through sanctions.

Rain And Winds Ease Dixie Forest Fire Peril

Raleigh, N.C. (AP)—Rain and diminishing winds brought a temporary end to the critical forest fire situation in the Southeast, forestry officials said Monday.

In North Carolina, hit hard by four days of costly woodland fires, Chief Forester Fred Claridge said: "We're in good shape today."

Claridge said the fires destroyed nearly 75,000 acres of timber.

In South Carolina, forestry officials said the rain relieved the most serious fire situation in the state's history. Fires destroyed some 60,000 acres of woodland during the weekend. Two lives were lost. Damage was estimated at $2 million.

In Georgia heavy rains drenched thousands of forest fires that destroyed 18,000 acres of woodland.

New fires were reported breaking out in the already charred mountain timberlands of southeastern Oklahoma.

Find New Way To Stop Shortness Of Breath, Gasping For Air In Asthma Attacks

Formula Doctors Prescribe Most Opens Locked Bronchial Tubes. Stops Attacks. Restores Free Breathing In Minutes.

New York, N.Y.—A modern medical formula has proved amazingly effective in relieving shortness of breath and difficulty in breathing for asthma sufferers. It stops choking attacks in minutes and restores normal breathing again. Prompt use helps avert attacks from even starting.

This formula is so effective doctors prescribe it more than any other. It comes in tiny tablets called Primatene.

Primatene promptly opens up locked bronchial tubes and keeps them open for hours. Trapped air is released. You can breathe in and out freely again. It loosens phlegm. Calms panic. Brings you back to normal fast. Taken as directed, Primatene is so safe it can now be sold without prescription in most states. Always carry Primatene with you.

Luna 10 Squeaky Singer

Moscow (AP)—The Soviet Union confirmed Monday it had put the first satellite in orbit around the moon, that it was completing a circuit every three hours and said it "opens up a new page in the exploration of the moon."

The squeaky-voiced radio signal from Luna 10 played the Communist anthem, "The Internationale."

It was piped directly to the 23rd Soviet Communist Party congress to the delight of the 6,000 Russian and foreign delegates.

Luna 10 went into orbit Sunday, as Western astronomers reported, but news of the feat was withheld by the Russians until it could be announced to the congress.

404-Mile Variation

The 540-pound, unmanned Luna 10 was reported in an orbit ranging from 217 miles to 621 miles above the moon.

Luna 10 was reported sending back to earth data on the moon's surface and near-lunar space, but there were no claims that it was sending pictures of the moon's surface.

The U.S. moon program calls for a satellite this summer to photograph the moon from an orbit as near as 28 miles from the surface to help map a landing spot for a manned vehicle.

Soviet news media, without saying exactly why, compared the importance of Luna 10 to that of Luna 2, which became the first manmade object to hit the moon, in September 1959.

2 Objects

Luna 10, launched Thursday, actually left two objects orbiting the moon. One was the scientific instrument package itself. The other was the rocket that first placed it into lunar orbit and then separated.

GM Is Calling In '64-'65 Chevelles And '65 Chevies

Detroit (AP)—Chevrolet Division of General Motors Monday confirmed reports it had called nearly 1.5 million 1964-65 Chevelles and 1965 Chevies in for minor adjustments following reports of several cases of accelerators sticking.

Chevrolet spokesmen said a splash shield would be installed free of charge to the owner of all the Powerglide transmission cars. Unofficial estimates were that the project would cost over $3 million.

The spokesman said there had been "fewer than half a dozen cases where snow or slush caused the throttle to stick."

"This happened only in heavy snow or slush at around 32 degrees," they explained. "The shield prevents slush from packing around the throttle linkage."

Dealers were instructed to notify affected customers to bring their cars in for the modifications.

U.S. Blast-Spotting Plan Is Cheat-Proof

Geneva (AP)—The United States made public Monday details of a cheat-proof plan to guarantee a treaty banning underground nuclear tests.

Chief U.S. delegate Adrian S. Fisher told the 17-nation disarmament conference that America has evolved a detection system for on-site inspections which would make it virtually impossible for any country to conduct a secret underground nuclear explosion.

The system involves analysis of fission-product gases which slowly leak to the surface after such an explosion. Fisher claimed such gases could only result from a nuclear explosion and analysis on the surface would soon show whether the country concerned had cheated.

Scrubbing Out

This would make it impossible for a country to get away with secret tests by thoroughly cleaning up the surface of the explosion area to deceive on-site inspectors.

The 1963 Moscow limited test ban treaty excludes underground nuclear tests and there has been much international activity since then to close this remaining loophole.

The Soviet Union has repeatedly claimed that modern detection methods are now so advanced that on-site inspections are unnecessary. It has also charged the United States with wanting such inspections for espionage purposes.

Challenges U.S.S.R.

Fisher dismissed the latter accusation and called upon the Russians to find genuine objections to Monday's American proposals. He also challenged the Soviet Union to provide scientific proof to back up its assertions that an underground test ban treaty could work without on-site inspections.

Fisher told the conference that even with a seismic system "more sensitive than any which has previously existed," the United States still cannot determine whether some 45 events a year in the Soviet Union are earth tremors or underground nuclear explosions.

The reason, he said, is that nuclear explosions give out seismic signals identical to earth tremors and in many cases no distinction can be made.

UP Freight, Passenger Trains Back In Service

Omaha (AP)—Moving swiftly with the end of the four day rail strike just before midnight Sunday, the Union Pacific railroad fanned freight and passenger trains over its 9,700-mile system Monday.

A railroad spokesman said all crews were at work and freight was moving all over the Union Pacific system. Normal passenger train schedules were announced for Monday.

The first freight train moved out of Council Bluffs, Iowa, some 3½ hours after work was received that the striking Brotherhood of Locomotive Enginemen and Firemen had started notifying its members to return to work.

The Union Pacific said using supervisory personnel to move some key trains in advance of the end of the strike, helped considerably to get the trains moving quickly with return of assigned crews.

Additional Boxcars Sought By UP As Result Of Strike

Omaha (AP)—The Union Pacific Railroad asked Monday that additional boxcars be directed to it in order to "at least partially offset the loss of cars resulting from the recent strike."

Edd H. Bailey, president of the Union Pacific said in a statement that the four-day strike by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen "has further aggravated a serious boxcar shortage. Many shippers along our line have been in desperate straits because of this problem and we have had cases where plants have had to curtail production."

Bailey said UP alone has spent a quarter of a billion dollars in the last three years and in 1966 more than $145 million will be spent to add to the line's freight car fleet.

He said the UP Monday brought the matter of the car shortage once again to the attention of the Car Service Division of the American Association of Railroads and the Interstate Commerce Commission "with the request that they issue exclusion orders directing additional cars to us."

The governor said the order will release cars for use by the Burlington, Union Pacific and Chicago and North-western Railroad in the mid-west, including Nebraska.

He said grain shipments by the Commodity Credit Corporation has aggravated the boxcar shortage.

Many Volunteers Give Boost To Replanting Halsey Forest

Halsey — The big job of replanting the burned Bessey plantations on the Nebraska National Forest at Halsey is getting a big boost from Pine Ridge Job Corps enrollees.

Approximately 40 youths started planting trees in the burned over area. This is in addition to contractors and crews normally hired by the Forest Service for tree planting projects. Over 350,000 small tree seedlings will be planted during the next few weeks.

District Ranger Henry Bond is also expecting volunteer groups from several communities in Nebraska. Boys from the Kearney Boy's Training School will start planting trees on April 11. School children from eight Cherry County schools will be planting trees on the weekend of April 16. Junior Chamber of Commerce members from various communities will also be planting trees. Youths from numerous Nebraska 4-H Clubs have made plans to plant trees on the weekend of April 21.

The Nebraska Federation of Women's Clubs have made arrangements for the planting of a "Memorial Forest" in the burned over area. Individuals or groups interested in planting trees on the Bessey Division of the Nebraska National Forest should bring their own shovels and a container to carry trees. They should also contact the District Ranger or his representative at the Bessey Ranger District Office when they arrive at the forest.

Conrad Amen, 98, Dies At Hastings

Hastings (AP)—Conrad Amen, a native of Russia and the last of the charter members of the New York Avenue Congregational Church here, died Sunday at the age of 98.

He was a bricklayer and building contractor.

Mr. Amen came to Hastings in 1875, from Frank, Russia.

He is survived by a son, Joseph, and a daughter Mrs. Virginia Frasier of McCook and two daughters living in Hastings, Mrs. Lydia Laquiere and Mrs. Mabel King.

Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Tuesday at the New York Avenue Church.

Father's Death Ruled Accidental

Papillion (AP)—Sarp County Sheriff Richard Whitted said Monday the death of 27-year-old Thomas C. Haite Jr., Omaha, will be ruled accidental.

Haite, father of five, died Saturday night of a shotgun wound in his chest.

The shooting occurred as Haite's wife was driving out of the driveway, Sheriff Whitted said, when she heard a shot. She returned and found Haite's body near the front door, the shotgun beside him.

East Germany Buys Wheat From Canada

Winnipeg, Man. (AP)—The Canadian Wheat Board announced the sale of 3.6 million bushels of wheat to East Germany.

The sale, expected to be worth about $7 million, was made under the terms of an existing long-term agreement 25% cash and the balance within 18 months. The wheat will be delivered between May and July.

Three persons were injured and the aircraft was extensively damaged.

The pilot, William Eaves, 53, of Norfolk, was hospitalized with a fractured jaw. Less seriously injured were Mrs. Donna McCoy, 25, Norfolk, and Robert Simmonds, 35, Downey, Calif.

Summary of Conditions

A north to northwesterly flow of low level winds will continue over the tri-state area as a high pressure ridge continues from Montana to West Texas. Moist, unstable air over the two state area will cause partly cloudy to cloudy skies with scattered light snow flurries over the area. Rain will be generally fair Wednesday. Temperatures will be freezing or below over the area Tuesday night with warmer temperatures Wednesday.

Progress Isn't Easy

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

One wonders what the people many, many years from now will think of the current period of history. Will the times in hundreds of years be so enlightened that our actions of today will seem ridiculous, crude or backward? Chances are good that such will be the case because there are matters and conflicts for which we have no answer today but which might easily be solved in the light of more advanced thought.

We place a great deal of emphasis upon the sciences today but we still find some of our greatest weaknesses in the humanities. The organization of our social and economic structures is not a science but they are deserving of at least as much consideration and study as outer space and the many planets of the universe. All of this is not just a theoretical matter with no real meaning in the daily lives of today's citizens. We can find meaning to this subject in the current events that occupy us here in Nebraska and in Lincoln.

Lincoln is now situated on the edge of the Stevens Creek Watershed to the east. We have discouraged and in fact forbidden the development of this watershed because government has been unable to provide its share of services essential to development. But Stevens Creek will not always be the farm area it is today. The time will come when it will be full of homes, streets and other marks of an urban society.

Right now, however, there is located in Stevens Creek Watershed a stone home built way back in 1856. Now 110 years is not really such a long time in the course of human events but it is a long time in the history of a family. Now living on this farm are two couples, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Retzlaff and Mr. and Mrs. Merle Retzlaff, representing the third generation of their family.

The problem or uncertainty they face is a familiar one. Their farm lies in that part of the watershed being considered for use as the site of a dam on Stevens Creek. There are farmers all across Nebraska who can tell this family of the consequences of their situation. At present, the entire Stevens Creek area is only under study by the Corps of Engineers. Whatever final decisions are made will reflect this corps study as well as the authority and responsibility of the Salt-Wahoo Watershed Association under whose direction any improvement would be made. It is reported that it will be two to three years before any definite conclusions are reached. Thus, it might be assumed that concern on the part of the Retzlaffs is premature.

In a sense, this assumption is correct but in another way the family concern is warranted. For one thing, it could turn out that nothing will be done by way of a dam on Stevens Creek but this is highly unlikely. It is most likely that a structure will be built to control flooding along the creek. Still, the structure could be located somewhere other than the Retzlaff farm. If so, the family concern at this time would prove to be premature. But then, we come to the tough part. There is another reason that the Retzlaff family should not get too concerned but you could never sell them on it. Unfortunately, there isn't much they can do about things one way or another. Talk about the indefinite nature of their area is really somewhat irrelevant.

Such talk tends to indicate that the time for them to become concerned is when some plan has been drafted or agreed to. There is some sense in this except that it just doesn't work that way. By the time this point arrives, it is too late to get anything done.

Once a plan of development has been agreed upon by the corps and the association, hearings will be held in the matter and everyone given an ample opportunity to state his case. But the trouble is that such hearings are in the nature of an afternoon tea. The hearings are held for information purposes and not for the purpose of changing anything that has been decided.

Of course, if the hearings produced information that showed a mistake were being made, a change would be undertaken but this is next to impossible. By the time the decision has been made, the project has been examined in such detail that a mistake in location is all but out of the question. Thus, it all boils down to the lack of an opportunity for the property owner to have much of any voice in what is being done. This is an unfortunate situation and it happens in many areas, not just conservation. It happens in all kinds of public improvements from parks to sewers and at all levels of government.

But what can be done about it? That is the thing that more advanced thinking in some future age may solve but today the solution escapes us. If there is some way to progress in our public life without running counter to the desires of any segment of the citizenry, such a system has never been made known. The puzzle is that wherever a dam might be built, it would require the taking of private property and that is never a pleasant experience.

Very Little Say-So

A Home For The Veep

If the House of Congress has its way the United States will build a $750,000 home for the vice president. The House voted such a measure last week.

This has stirred a controversy. Why should the United States supply federal housing for its vice president? It has never been necessary before, and we have had a great many vice presidents. Besides Vice President Humphrey owns a comfortable, but not pretentious home in Washington and is not pushing for another one.

Vice President Humphrey may never live in the new home or if he does it will only be for a short while. It will be several years before one such would be ready for occupancy. But at the same time why should not the government provide for vice presidents? The nation is infinitely bigger than it was and the duties of the vice president have been greatly broadened. The job which once amounted to a vice president standing around while a living president was taking care of everything has developed into an active assistance. Some recognition should be given to this, especially since it is hard to conceive of the vice presidency becoming any less.

An appropriation of $750,000 in the face of a $100 billion budget is not formidable. The burden of such an improvement would levy less than a half cent on every American. At such a price it is very difficult to declare it a hardship on the taxpayers.

The issue is being too greatly emphasized. It is not worth all the heat and smoke it is causing. A home or lack of one will not affect the supply of vice presidents. But it would be better to have them adequately housed.

Future In Good Hands

Worried about the future? Wondering what will ever become of the world when it falls into the hands of some of the bearded and long-haired beatniks we hear so much about these days? Have you despaired of the younger generation?

If this kind of question plagues you, you need to know something about the other side of things. Sunday evening a wildlife conservation award was presented to Gerald "Bud" R. Campbell of Ravenna. The award was made by the Sunday Journal and Star in cooperation with the University of Nebraska Wildlife Club at a club banquet in the Student Union.

Presiding at that banquet was a young man named Terry Cacek of Odell, club president. No person, young or old, has ever been more in control of a meeting and handled it with more poise than young Mr. Cacek handled that meeting.

Nor was this all. Two other students, one a sophomore and one a senior, had a part in the program and they, too, handled their assignments before the microphone with perfection. Not one head of long hair nor one beard was seen in the whole place and the gathering was dominantly a student group.

When the evening was all finished, President Cacek closed with a statement. He said that when you read about and see the students demonstrating in various areas of the country, burning draft cards and bearing an unkempt appearance, remember that this evening was planned and carried out by a student group.

There are a great many more students such as Terry Cacek and the members of his club than there are of the beatnik variety. And they are the ones who will prevail in the future, just as has been the pattern in the past.

Ecuador's Revolution

We have just passed through a semi-violent change in the administration of Ecuador and the worst it can cost us may be a slight increase in the price of bananas.

Ecuador has been under the rule of a three man military junta which took charge on July 11, 1963 after throwing out the hard drinking president, Arosemena. A fortnight ago students and business men began to make trouble. The three man junta had brought a measure of peace to Ecuador but had done little or nothing to relieve a sagging economy. The army had to line up with the students and the business element, so that meant the junta had to catch a plane for Brazil.

Ecuadorian upsets are palace revolutions, mainly for the reason that the common people are so poor and disinterested in politics that even the communists cannot get to them. The revolutions are therefore dictated by the business and student class which are a great minority. Politics simply has not penetrated to the masses.

Ecuador is one of the worst examples of the original revolutions which swept the Spanish and the Portuguese out of power as colonial empires. The leaders of those revolutions were patriots. But when their time passed only the ambitious local leaders remained. They headed rag tag armies and became generals, but not in an ethical sense. They wanted power for personal wealth. Generally they hung on as long as they could and then got out with as much of the treasury as they could seize. Politics therefore became an unscrupulous head-hunting activity which has produced 117 successful revolutions and possibly as many unsuccessful ones. It is small wonder that the masses have no faith in democratic processes.

Goldberg Knew Of Campus Protest

WASHINGTON—There was a lot of untold drama behind that recent confrontation between Ambassador Arthur Goldberg and an unruly audience at the University of California.

Here is the inside story of what happened.

Some weeks ago, President Clark Kerr of the University of California came to see Goldberg at the U.S. mission to the United Nations in New York, asked him to come out to speak at the university's Charter Day ceremony, March 24, and receive an honorary degree.

Kerr warned Ambassador Goldberg that all would not be wine and roses when he appeared at the university; that the school had plenty of Viet Nam dissenters and shortly thereafter, the ambassador got a telephone call from his son in California, warning that the entire campus appeared to be conspiring against the older Goldberg. "I'm not telling you what you should do, dad," said Robert Goldberg, "but I'm just warning you what you're going to get into."

Simultaneously, Goldberg received an invitation from a "Faculty Committee for Peace" at Berkeley, inviting him to attend a conference and answer questions. Goldberg has always been a strong believer in the right of dissent, had written several Supreme Court opinions championing the right to disagree. He accepted.

On his arrival at Berkeley, the ambassador was greeted by an unruly crowd carrying signs reading, "Goldberg Go Home," "Down With War," "Ban Wars," "Exit From Viet Nam."

It developed that a lot of the agitators were not students at the university but hangers-on around the campus, who converged to make Goldberg's appearance as embarrassing as possible. Some of them, it was learned, were so far to the left that they consider the Russians "static" and the Chinese somewhat to the right of center.

Before the ambassador received his honorary degree it was learned that a part of the audience planned to walk out the minute the degree was conferred, as a protest. Some faculty members suggested, therefore, that the order of the program be rearranged, so that Goldberg spoke first and received the degree last.

"No," said Goldberg. "The program is printed and we're not going to bow to pressure."

Some faculty members also suggested that the ambassador decline to speak before the "Faculty Committee for Peace" unless the crowd was orderly when he received his honorary degree.

"No," said Goldberg. "I made a commitment to speak and no matter what happens I shall fulfill it."

The program continued as per schedule.

Fulbright At One Pole, LBJ At Other

WASHINGTON — He sits hunched over his big desk, stacks of books at either end, his glasses slipping down the bridge of his nose. Sen. J. William Fulbright, looking rather like a bemused college professor, is the least likely candidate one could imagine for embattled leader of the opposition on the highly emotional issue of Viet Nam.

Whatever the public image, and from time to time Fulbright has managed to arouse the ire of almost every organized group in the country, this is not how the senator sees himself. He believes in a sober examination of the realities, which is what, as chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, he considers the goal of the hearings on Viet Nam and China.

The hearings were widely reported but Fulbright, who can never be charged with being a cheery optimist, shakes his head sadly as he says that he cannot see that they had much effect on public opinion. In this he finds himself in agreement with President Johnson who noted that the stock of his Viet Nam critics seeking a way out of the war had not risen in opinion polls.

For the crisis of the Viet Nam war and for the senator who has been the most consistent critic of administration policy this is a kind of halfway point. The China hearings are in suspension if not concluded as the pressures to expand the war are growing.

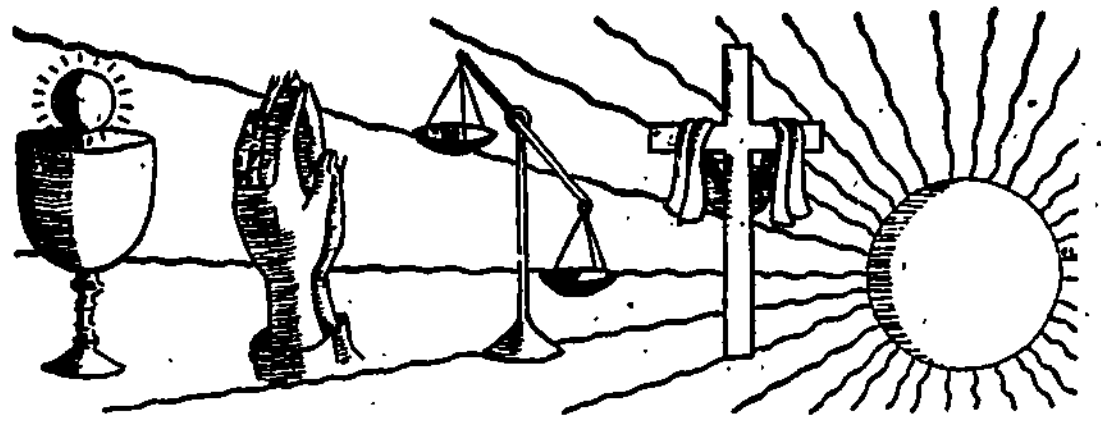

They have talked together, the President in their last meeting urging the senator to meet with Secretary of State Dean Rusk. For Fulbright this sounds like a prescription to agree with Rusk. That is, of course, the great divide, with the chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee differing more sharply over Rusk's definition of America's worldwide responsibility to contain communism than on Viet Nam.

The weakness of the position of those who, like Fulbright, seek a de-escalation of the war is their alternative. They are not for scuttling and run despite the calculated campaign to pin that label on them. This leaves the enclave strategy of Generals Matthew Ridgway and James L. Gavin, a holding operation meaning eventual disengagement. It would not necessarily be a static operation, since Vietnamese-American units could move out from the coastal cities to keep the Viet Cong off balance.

With this as his alternative Fulbright realizes that the President is the court of last appeal. He wants to talk with him again. But he is aware of how time is running out as the pressure to bomb Hanoi and Haiphong builds up.

What profoundly concerns him, as a humanitarian and a scholar, is the apparent willingness to sacrifice civilian lives in a bombing drive that could, if the war escalates, extend to China's millions.

Christ's Fulfillment and Glory

ST. LUKE

Now the Festival of Unleavened Bread, known as Passover, was approaching, and the chief priests and the doctors of the law were trying to devise some means of doing away with him; for they were afraid of the people.

Then Satan entered into Judas Iscariot, who was one of the Twelve; and Judas went to the chief priests and officers of the temple police to discuss ways and means of putting Jesus into their power. They were greatly pleased and undertook to pay him a sum of money. He agreed, and began to look out for an opportunity to betray him to them without collecting a crowd.

Then came the day of Unleavened Bread, on which the Passover victim had to be slaughtered, and Jesus sent Peter and John with these instructions: "Go and prepare for our Passover supper." "Where would you like us to make the preparations?" he asked. He replied, "As soon as you set foot in the city a man will meet you carrying a jar of water. Follow him into the house that he enters and give this message to the householder: 'The Master says, 'Where is the room in which I may eat the Passover with my disciples?'" He will show you a large room upstairs all set out: make the preparations there." They went and found everything as he had said. So they prepared for Passover.

When the time came he took his place at table, and the apostle with him; and he said to them, "How I have longed to eat this Passover with you before my death! For I tell you, never again shall I eat it until the time when it finds its fulfillment in the kingdom of God."

Then he took a cup, and after giving thanks he said, "Take this and share it among yourselves; for I tell you, from this moment I shall drink from the fruit of the vine no more until the time when the kingdom of God comes." And he took bread, gave thanks, and broke it; and he gave it to them, with the words: "This is my body."

LA VERNA HASSLER

Patchwork Prairie Country

April has changed the mood of spring from boisterous, windy days to quiet, bright days. From a distance I see the magic of April working, transforming the earth into a green loveliness. The willows' early leafing is a light silver green quite as shimmering as a new mountain lake.

Just as silently the dandelions have pushed up through the spears of grass. I like dandelions only in the hands of small children. Today a little girl came in from recess with one clutched in her hand. An eager little boy trailed after her. He begged her to let him use the flower for an experiment. She hesitated, thinking his experiment would lead to disaster. Finally he convinced her that her life would not be in danger and she consented to let him hold the dandelion under her chin to see if she liked butter.

One by one he checked each child as they filed into the schoolroom. All went well until one small voice piped: "That experiment won't work on me because I eat just margarine . . . nothing but margarine . . . on my toast!"

For this reason, known only to second-graders, he was spared the ceremony of tilting his head up to see if a yellow color were reflected underneath his chin.

The twilight of April is as new and clean as a blue blotter. Tonight the sun set with a rosy glow. I saw a silver jet as shiny as an unused ball-point diagramming the western sky. Its scrawl of vapor trails was swift as if it were attempting a new speed-writing test. All summer the jets will be mapping the evening sky. They leave vapor trails in winter but I do not wait in the cold to watch.

Warm spring evenings are for lingering in the twilight. I like to watch the diminishing light of day as it pales to a soft velvet-gray. I choose this time to go with The Farmer to count the newborn calves. We have eight little calves now that are brimming over with curiosity. When we walk into the pasture, they come up to us step by step. If we do not move to frighten them, they allow us to rub their heads and rough their backs. Always in the background the old cows wait, lowing now and then to call their offspring away from us.

Last night one of them was lost. The herd had come to the farmyard to drink and munch the alfalfa hay that was waiting for them. The Farmer looked in the barn. He made a tour around the fence of the yard. Not a shining black hair of the little calf did he see.

"I think I'll look in the barn again," he said. "A black calf in the dark corner of a barn is like looking for a needle in a haystack."

The second time he looked, he found the rascal . . . in the corner all bedded down for the night.

It took some time for my eyes to adjust to the darkness and shadows of the barn, but when they did focus, I, too, spied the little creature. He was literally as black as the night.

One could almost guess that Easter is near at hand without a calendar. There is something about the quietude of the countryside as the pulsating tide of spring flows over the greening meadows that tells me. There was a quickening of the spirit as well as of the land. The time of rebirth and new hope is everywhere. There is a purity in the cleansing rain showers and a certain measure of beneficial solitude as one watches the white clouds billows pass overhead.

There comes a new hope for peace and a new era for thinking with patience toward a new day.

Your Five Cents Worth

Offshore Oil

Crete, Neb. I just wonder why Senator Curtis doesn't want to debate with the governor. He must be a coward. Maybe the governor would tell him something that he doesn't know yet. A lot of young people who will be going to the polls for the first time don't know that Curtis and Hruska both voted against the bill that would allow all the states to get money from the offshore oil. I wonder who owns it. Maybe Cuba or some other country does. I wouldn't be surprised if the boys got a nice bonus for voting against it. I believe the Crete schools could use some of the money from that oil. Perhaps the Minden school, too. Maybe then they could pay their teachers more.

Curtis also voted against the farm program and many other bills. I know what bills he voted for and the bills he voted against.

I believe the people of Nebraska would do a wise thing by supporting Mr. Morrison.

Vine, South Traffic Changes OK'd

COUNCIL APPROVES ONE MAJOR VARIATION

The City Council late Monday night approved the Vine St. and South St. improvement projects with only one major variation from designs advocated by the traffic and engineering departments.

The council directed that the controversial proposed raised concrete median on South St. blocking 14th St., be broken to allow through traffic on 14th, and that the planned median at 27th and Ryons be shortened so that Ryons traffic can move across 27th.

Plans for the widening and channelization of Vine and related work on No. 27th and No. 33rd remained intact after the council voted approval of the improvement district, although council members insisted that approval was on the basis that the city provide access to alleys near businesses on 27th.

Former Lincoln Detective Back —As Motorman

Lyle Bigley returned to the Lincoln police force as a motor officer Monday after quitting the force about 10 months ago. The former detective said Monday night he "missed the work and decided to return."

Bigley was seriously wounded in a gunfight with a robber about a year and a half ago. He was shot in the head by a .22 caliber revolver while trying to keep the robber and his female accomplice from escaping. Bigley was a detective at the time.

Bigley will have to start as any other new officer.

ment said it would draw plans to widen and pave alleys that will give access to off-street parking lots for merchants on both sides of 27th, including new curb cuts on 26th to benefit west side businesses. City Engineer Dick Erickson said meetings would be scheduled with merchants to explain construction schedules. "We will try to set up acceptable detours and expedite construction so that the streets will be closed in segments as short a time as possible," he said. But for the one exception at 14th and South, the concrete medians called for by Traffic Engineer Robert Holsinger will be constructed. No Comment He argued that breaking the median at 14th would paralyze the intersection, as well as affect the intersection at 13th and South. He refused comment on the council decision. Holsinger, Erickson and the public works department in general drew praise from the council for their presentation and planning involving the $687,000 South St. and $553,000 Vine St. projects.

Merchants and property owners had opposed the medians as unnecessary and a threat to business.

The council met for two hours Monday morning to discuss the street work and reached its decision at 11 p.m. after marathon public hearings on other city matters.

Council Changes Laws For Minors Who Work

ON LICENSED PREMISES

The City Council Monday approved an amended ordinance which conforms city and state laws in the area of allowing minors to work in premises licensed for the consumption of alcoholic beverages.

The ordinance affects an estimated 1,200 local youths who work as kitchen help, bus boys and waiters in clubs and hotels in the city.

Under its provisions, minors can work on licensed premises if they do not sell, handle, serve or dispense liquor or beer.

In addition, it provides that no minor under 16 can be on the premises after 9 p.m. as a guest unless accompanied by a person at least 21 years old.

The law in effect would allow minors 16-21 to remain in public licensed premises past 9 p.m. without being accompanied by an adult and minors under 16 could work past 9 p.m. if they did not handle liquor.

Also approved by the council was an ordinance setting standards for identification signs for uses approved by special permit in residential areas. The measure removes the necessity for such signs to be individually authorized by the special permit procedure.

Identification signs now will be allowed if they are not more than 20 square feet in area and are non-illuminated.

Signs must be attached to the building unless the building is 50 feet or more from the front property line. They then may be freestanding up to the 20 foot set-back.

Under the new ordinance, only one sign per use will be allowed.

Greenholtz said Murray was serving a two-year term for a conviction from Scotts Bluff County on a charge of possessing a burglary instrument and Collins a one to two year term from Platte.

Candidate Will Discuss Taxes

Charles E. Wilcox, a candidate for the 46th District seat in the Legislature, will discuss state tax problems at a Havelock businessman's meeting Tuesday.

The meeting is slated for the Moose Lodge.

"If the state income tax law should be repealed and the property tax also voted out, the 1967 session of the Legislature must find a workable answer to the Nebraska tax dilemma before July 1 or face a financial crisis in state government," Wilcox said.

RED RIVER ROLLS OVER FARMLAND

By The Associated Press

Floodwaters of the Red River of the north rolled over more and more rich farmland in Eastern North Dakota and northwestern Minnesota Monday.

Between Oslo, Minn., and Drayton, N.D., alone—a distance of 30 miles—the river spread out 12 miles wide to form a lake covering 360 square miles of the Red River Valley.

Spring thawing from the heavy March blizzard sent the Red River, Red Lake River of Minnesota and other tributaries out of their banks.

A huge ice jam on the Red Lake River, upstream from Crookston, Minn., was blasted by dynamite, removing one threat to the town.

But as the ice moved on, it jammed with boards, branches and other debris at bridges at Crookston. Workers poked at it with pike poles and tractors.

A flood wall protected the town, and the river was about 1 1/2 feet below the wall's top. The Red River waters continued to creep up at Grand Forks, N.D., with the level at 45.59 feet Monday morning. A crest of 47 or 48 feet was expected at Grand Forks.

Some Construction Workers Stay Away, But All Jobs Are 'Operating'

A labor spokesman said about 80% of the union members seeking new contracts with contractors remained off construction jobs Monday, but management said it found only 89 employees missing from work.

All trades except bricklayers, cement masons and plasterers worked Monday, according to John Miller, vice president of Olson Construction Co. and spokesman for the Building Construction Employers Association.

Neil Sipp, president of the Lincoln Building and Construction Trades Council, said only two of the nine unions involved in recent negotiations have signed new contracts and 80% of the members of other unions are staying at home.

Only the lathers and painters have signed, according to Sipp. Miller said "all jobs are operating."

Sorensen Urges New Approaches To Development

Nelson —"Nebraska today must find new approaches to industrial development," Lt. Gov. Philip Sorensen said in Nelson Monday evening, "just as the Nebraskans of yesterday had to develop new techniques to make the prairie sod produce."

Speaking at a Farmer Merchant banquet Sorensen, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor, declared, "Nebraska has a great potential for industry."

"In developing this potential, we are limited only by the scope of our imagination, and by the extent of our determination to take the proper advantage of the resources which Nebraska has in such abundance."

Charter Sought For Omaha Bank

State Banking Director Byron Dunn reported Monday he has received a bank charter application for the proposed Mid City Bank of Omaha.

Applicants are S. E. Copple, S. Edward Copple, Victor F. Jovanat and H. A. Dillman of Lincoln and John Atkins and L. A. Dillman of Omaha.

Proposed capitalization is $500,000. Dunn said a hearing date on the application would be set later.

operating engineers have been offered a 50-cent package over a three year period, including the pension plan and increases in health and welfare benefits, he said.

Plasterers have been offered the same terms accepted by the lathers, Miller said.

A subcontractor clause, he said, would not change the subcontracting policies, and practices of BCEA members in any way and would only "cause a raft of lawsuits" between unions and contractors.

Meanwhile, Sipp said—that agents of seven craft unions were informed at a meeting Monday that cement finishers are picketing the Hinky Dinky construction site at Seward.

Sipp said he was informed that the contractor attempted to hire strike breakers.

Unions are willing to negotiate further with BCEA, Sipp noted.

"Lack of negotiations today is due to the contractors," he said.

Laborers, lathers, painters and iron workers did not even include it in their original demands, according to Miller, and all have settled without it.

Operating engineers asked for it originally, but removed it as a demand last Thursday, Miller said.

Plasterers have indicated they are no longer interested in the subcontractor clause, he said.

Miller said the laborers and lathers settled for a package increase of 45 cents an hour over the next three years. Painters settled for 55 cents.

The teamsters representative will recommend settlement on a 45-cent package, Miller said. Bricklayers, carpenters, cement masons and

Federal Aviation School Proposal Hit

Lincoln City Councilman John Mason Monday declared his opposition to Rep. Clair Callan's proposal to establish a federal civilian aviation academy and seek its location at the Lincoln Air Force Base.

"The lengths to which Rep. Callan proposes to extend the welfare state philosophy of the administration are astonishing," Mason said in a prepared statement.

"The Job Corps program is controversial enough, but at least it is an effort to take disadvantaged youth out of a hopeless environment and train them to be self-supporting citizens; (it is) an expensive, uncertain undertaking, but a worthy objective.

"There is a vast difference however, between training disadvantaged youth on the one hand, and training men for high-salaried positions with large national corporations."

High Pay Jobs

Callan, Mason said, is "proposing in all seriousness, apparently, that the federal government pay for a training program to supply pilots for commercial airline jobs which in the early years pay $15,000 to $18,000 per year, and which soon lead to $25,000 to $30,000 per year salaries.

"These pilots are employed by gigantic national and international corporate enterprises which are well-capitalized and profitable.

"Why, then, must this training be supported by the federal government?"

Private enterprise and local state government can provide facilities to train pilots, Mason said.

Federal Intervention "We do not need and should not want federal intervention and control in this education and training project," he declared.

"There should be enough leadership, technical know-how, management experience and capital available right here in Nebraska to provide the nucleus of a private enterprise project for pilot training.

"Lincoln itself, the town that trained Colonel Lindbergh, ought to be able to solve this problem without groveling up the well-worn path to Washington, for a hand-out of our own money."

Mason called upon the business leadership of Lincoln "to initiate a study of the feasibility of a privately-supported aviation school."

Callan, he said, "could do well to concentrate on influencing the leader of his party to solve some of his Great Society problems, such as inflation and excessive and unnecessary government spending in a time of national war-time crisis."

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

Many Elders Don't Feel Old

By ROBERT PETERSON

The mail often brings a column fodder from helpful souls who pass along clippings, articles and booklets with fresh ideas and concepts one might not otherwise encounter.

Someone has sent me a provocative pamphlet on aging by Rev. Raymond C. Barker. "There is no old age...there are just people who are expecting it," declares this director of New York's First Church of Religious Science. "The world sells you from the day you are born the idea that you are going to get old. Are you going to believe what the world tells you? Or are you going to believe what the spirit within tells you?"

He has something here. In talking with elders I sometimes ask if they feel old. They often say in essence that the calendar, the mirror, their relatives and their creaky bones tell them they're old. But inside in their mind they feel as youthful and eager as they were half a century before.

"I intend to mature but I do not intend to have old age," continues Rev. Barker. "I intend to live to my last breath actively, dynamically and happily. You may say that when I am 75 I won't feel this way. Maybe not, but I do know I will have more sense. I probably won't want to do half the things I want to do now. But then I don't want to do things today I did 30 years ago, for I have no interest in them."

With refreshing candor he says, "I am delighted with nearly every sin I ever committed. It would be dreadful to go to my grave and not have had all this experience. Many never sin because they're afraid of taking the chance, or the desire has been scared out of them by the theologians. At 70 they look back on a blameless life and it is terrible."

"As long as you are inspired and interested in the new, you will stay ageless. What can you do to be inspired? One thing is to break away from old ruts and routines."

He quotes psychiatrist A. T. Simeons, M.D., as saying that tension ages the body, and that the best way of avoiding tension is to learn to relax with new activities and new patterns of thinking.

Then he tells about 10 elderly women he knows who find new zest for living by getting together once a week and dining at a different foreign restaurant.

He feels most of us need change and variety. "You age cheese, beer and whiskey by leaving it alone. You don't touch it for years. I know people who haven't touched or changed anything in their lives for years and they look like old cheese, old beer, and old whiskey."

"What to do about old age? Just never expect it. Change events in your life regularly. Bring new people into your life. Love God, and believe in your own soul, and you will mature in the pattern of youth."

Some good ideas here. It may not be easy to convince us there's no old age. But it's a clench many make themselves feel unduly old by thinking too much about it.

BRIDE at evening ceremony

The chancel of St. James Methodist Church was appointed with arrangements of Fuji chrysanthemums and carnations in tones of beige and blue for the marriage of Miss Bonnie Hiner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Boyd Hiner, to William Baller, son of Dr. and Mrs. Warren R. Baller, on Saturday evening, April 2. The candlelight ceremony was solemnized at 8 o'clock by the Rev. Clarence Campbell.

Miss Jean Eno, as the honor attendant, Miss Dona Logan, the bridesmaid, and the bridesmaids, Mrs. Douglas Osterholm of Omaha, and Mrs. James Eitel, wore long-skirted, directoire frocks in soft blue and beige.

Serving his brother as best man was J. Timothy Baller, and seating the guests were Richard Herholt, Terry Janusz, Gary Cooper and Robert Frisch.

The bride's period gown was fashioned of delustered satin in the candlelight shade. Handclipped Chantilly lace over satin formed the wide bell sleeves of the bodice, and the lace was repeated in a wide band touching the hem of the slim skirt, which was completed by a panel train of the satin extending to cotillion length. Her bouffant veil of illusion was held to the head by a tucked pillbox cap of the satin, and she carried a single, ivory orchid from which cascaded boxwood foliage and ivy.

The bride is a former student at the University of Nebraska. A graduate of the university, Mr. Baller will receive his Masters degree in the near future during his doctorate studies in educational psychology at the University of Nebraska. He is a member of Theta Xi fraternity.

Bridal Showers

To be honored at a pre-nuptial courtesy on Tuesday evening will be Miss Ardelle Davis, whose marriage to Gerald R. Boardman of Thorp, Wis., will be an event of Saturday, April 9.

Entertaining for the bride-elect will be Mrs. Arthur Stough who will be hostess to 12 guests at a patio party at her home. The honored guest will be presented with a kitchen shower.

Included among recent courtesies for the soon-to-be bride was the personal shower held last Saturday evening at the home of Mrs. Lyle Bigley. Twenty guests were invited for the informal evening and assisting Mrs. Bigley as hostess was Mrs. Olin Wissler.

The former University of Nebraska coed, who is the daughter of Mrs. Truman K.

Davis, has chosen Mrs. Gary Ossenkop as her matron of honor for the 4 o'clock afternoon service, to be solemnized at Christ Lutheran Church.

The bridesmaid will be Miss Clovis Newell, and Mrs. James Kuhn of Watertown, Wis., sister of Miss Davis's fiancé, will be the bridesmaid. Miss Kenlyn Smetter will attend her cousin as flower girl, and ringbearer will be Kevin Smetter, both of Seward.

Richard Boardman of Thorp, Wis., will serve his brother as best man, and the corps of ushers will include Terry Boardman and the bridegroom-elect's brother, Randy Boardman, Thorp, Wis.; Russell Boardman of Oconomowoc, Wis., also a brother of Mr. Boardman; and Richard Tangeman.

—And you think the weather is as unpredictable as it is unusual? Well, we think that the suburban news runs a close second to the weather in the 'unpredictable' category.

This morning we have news about just every possible thing there is to do. From traveling students to successful fishermen, the members of the suburban social set have certainly taken on a sporty and exciting air—all the way to the very last traveler or vacationer. But first off this morning, let's hear about how one twelve-year-old is celebrating his birthday.

FIENE HEIGHTS

Miss Roxie Mulder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Mulder completed her Spring break from Hastings College on Sunday. Roxie spent her entire 10-day vacation visiting with her parents and with her brother Dan, a student at the University of Nebraska. We are also told that on Friday Roxie will be making a reappearance at the Mulder home where she plans to spend the Easter weekend.

The house is getting in order for the Easter weekend at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kent Sherman. The guest list is complete and now only minor decisions concerning the Easter dinner remain. But let's let the unsettled problems rest for awhile and turn our attention to the guest who is expected to arrive at the Sherman home. Coming to Lincoln on Saturday will be Mr. Sherman's mother, Mrs. Fred Sherman, of Loup City who will be a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman until late Sunday. As for the other guests who will be present for dinner on Sunday—we can tell you that they will be Mrs. Sherman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Riddle of Lincoln.

MEADOW LANE

To celebrate his 12th birthday anniversary on this very day, Tim Schroer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Schroer marked the occasion by having a fond dream come true—He and his close friend, Gary Ebert went fishing last weekend, accompanied by Mr. Schroer—and landed 18 fish. The trio's destination is a deep dark secret, incidentally, but we will tell you that this lake, which is teeming with fish, is located on private property.

To complete his memorable anniversary, Tim will celebrate in a more customary manner this evening when a family dinner will be enjoyed at the Schroer home. Special guests will be Tim's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Steyer, and his Godparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Steyer and their children, Sue and Paul.

KESSLER HEIGHTS

Newcomers have been discovered in the Kessler Heights area. We hear that Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wilson are becoming settled in their new home on Pace Boulevard. Mr. and Mrs. Wilson formerly resided in Fort Lewis, Wash.

Opening lead—king of diamonds.

There are many ways of reducing the luck factor in bridge and increasing the element of skill. It would be poor policy to rely solely upon luck in a given hand if an alternative line of play were available which was sure to succeed regardless of how the adverse cards were divided.

Here is a case in point. Let's say you're declarer at four hearts and West leads the king of diamonds. One way of playing the hand is to win in the diamond with the ace, draw trumps, and then unblock the jack of spades.

If the finesse worked, you would make the contract, but if it failed, you could then go down. East shifted to a club and it turned out that West had the ace.

You would be about a 3 to 1 favorite to make the contract if you played the hand this way, but there is another method of play which eliminates the luck element in its entirety and gives you a 100% chance to make the contract.

Win the diamond lead with the ace, draw two rounds of trumps, and then cash the A-K of spades. Now lead the jack of diamonds and discard the seven of spades on it. This costs you a diamond trick which you could have saved by ruffing, but, at the same time, assures the contract.

West wins the diamond with the queen, but, regardless of the nature of his hand, he is bound to give you the contract. If he has a spade to lead and leads it, he establishes the fourth spade in dummy as a trick, while if he leads a diamond or a club, you save a club trick and thus make the contract.

It is surely better to adopt this line of play than depend on the favorable location of the queen of spades or ace of clubs. A sure thing is a sure thing is a sure thing.

DEAR ABBY: You said if a lady didn't know a gentleman's last name and she didn't want to address him by his first name, she could call him, "Sir." Abby, a lady NEVER addresses a gentleman as "Sir" unless she is in England and he happens to be a knight.

HORRIFIED
DEAR HORRIFIED: After personally consulting my good friend Amy, (Vanderbilt, that is) I am advised that on occasion it is proper for a lady to address a gentleman as "Sir." Example: A secretary coming upon a visitor to her boss might very well say, "One moment, Sir," if she doesn't know his name and he appears to be of the same distinguished men as her boss. The same secretary might address her boss as "Sir," occasionally, but under NO circumstances would a lady use "Sir" alone to attract attention anywhere. And by the way, in England, she would never, never use "Sir" alone in addressing a knight. He is "Sir John." I have quoted what I consider to be the Supreme Court of Etiquette; so sue me!

DEAR ABBY: My name is Linda, I am 17 years old, and I did a very dumb thing. I gave a boy my picture and wrote something very mushy on it. I really meant it at the time I wrote it, but things have changed, and I don't mean it any more. I would give anything to get that picture back, but he won't give it to me. I wouldn't mind if he kept the picture and tore off what I wrote. Or even if he tore up the whole picture. Don't you think under the circumstances he ought to return it. How can I make him give it back to me?

LINDA
DEAR LINDA: You can't. You gave him the picture and it is his. Yes, I think he "ought to" return it, but unless he wants to, there is nothing you can do about it. Let this be a lesson to you. With maturity will come many changes of heart. Be careful what you put in writing. (And some adults would be wise to heed this advice.)

NFWC Meeting

The annual spring convention of the Nebraska Federation of Women's Clubs, to be held in Lincoln at the Hotel Cornhusker on April 12 to 14, will be highlighted by an address to be given by Mrs. William H. Hasebroock of West Point, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

Mrs. Hasebroock will address the delegates representing the more than 11,000 federated club members in the state at the closing luncheon on Thursday, April 14.

Presiding officers at the convention sessions will be Mrs. Walter R. Kirchneier of Sutton, state president, and Miss Ruth Ebmeier of Laurel, first vice president, assisted by state officers and chairman, and by past state presidents, Mrs. Roy Magill, Holdrege, and Mrs. George Meckling, Lincoln, both members of the General Federation board of directors.

Convention hostesses will be representatives from the 51 clubs in District 6 of western Nebraska, who will open the convention on Tuesday, April 12, with a tea to be held at the home of University of Nebraska Chancellor Clifford Hardin and Mrs. Hardin.

Convention speakers will include Mrs. Louise Bushnell of New York City, director of women's activities of the National Association of Manufacturers, who will speak at the Tuesday evening dinner on the topic, "The Challenge of Change"; Miss Marian Ross, community relations associate of the Motion Picture Association of America; Marvin L. Brown, pharmaceutical firm representative, who will discuss drug abuse by youth; and Ben Goble, member of Congressman Clair Callan's Human Resources Committee, whose topic will be, "Youth, Our Most Important Resource".

The convention agenda also will include a panel discussion on the Nebraska Centennial, moderated by Don Shriner, director, and a special program for junior club members presented by Dr. H. C. Stewart of Pawnee City, who will speak on,

"My Experiences on the USS Hope".

New state officers will be elected and installed on Wednesday, April 13, and following the banquet, the new executives will be honored at a reception to be held at the Lincoln Woman's Club-house.

The convention will conclude Thursday with a fashion show and presentation of awards.

Yanks' Repoz Hits Three Home Runs

HEAVY WIND AIDS BLASTS

By Associated Press

Ten wind-driven home runs, three by Roger Repoz of the New York Yankees, cleared the fences in the only two Florida games played Monday as tornadoes whipped through major league baseball camps in the South.

The Yankees nipped the Cincinnati Reds 10-0. Lou Clinton's two-run single capping a ninth-inning rally, and two homers by Curt Blefary led the Baltimore Orioles past the only Florida games.

Two Chicago Cubs pitchers blanked the California Angels 4-0 at Las Vegas, Nev., and the Cleveland Indians whipped the Los Angeles Dodgers 7-2 at Mesa, Ariz.

The Houston-Pittsburgh, Minnesota-Kansas City, St. Louis-Chicago White Sox, Boston-New York Mets and Atlanta-Philadelphia games were victims of the Florida storm.

Gardie Coleman and John Edwards homered for Cincinnati, which led the Yankees 9-7 going into the last of the ninth despite Repoz' three blasts.

Ruben Amaro's single and Horace Clarke's double produced one New York run and, after an intentional walk to Roy White, Clinton singled home the tying and winning runs.

Blefary's two homers and one by Boog Powell paced the Orioles, offsetting Washington home runs by Willie Kirkland and Bob Chance.

Storms Hit Training Camp Sites

By Associated Press
Tornadoes that swept Florida Monday put a damper on several major league baseball teams opening the final week of spring training.

The Houston Astros' training site at Cocoa was damaged, three exhibition games were washed out, and high winds and rain hit other camps.

Astro officials reported several light poles at the stadium were knocked down and windows were broken in the recreation building at Cocoa.

The Astros are scheduled to play the Kansas City Athletics at Cocoa Tuesday night, but the game probably will be transferred to the A's camp at Bradenton.

Houston's game against the Pittsburgh Pirates at Fort Myers was rained out, along with the Minnesota Twins and the A's at Bradenton and the St. Louis Cardinals and Chicago White Sox at Sarasota.

Strong winds and heavy rain hit the Winter Haven camp of the Boston Red Sox, but there was no damage. There also was considerable rain at Tampa, where the Cincinnati Reds train, and at St. Petersburg, training site for the New York Mets.

The weather caused cancellation of the Mets' B squad game but a night game at St. Petersburg between the Mets and Red Sox still was scheduled.

Extremely high winds whipped Pompano Beach, but the Washington Senators played an intra-squad game in the morning, then played the Baltimore Orioles in the afternoon.

Other training camps—the Orioles' at Miami, the Philadelphia Phillies' at Clearwater and the Detroit Tigers' at Lakeland—were unaffected.

Frazier Scores 7th Straight Knockout
Philadelphia (U)—Former Olympic heavyweight boxing champion Joe Frazier of Philadelphia knocked out Charlie Polite in 55 seconds of the second round Monday night, along with two of Polite's teeth.

It was the seventh straight knockout for Frazier, who has been undefeated since he turned professional.

Rech Leads Fullerton To Triangular Win
Fullerton—Rich Rech led Fullerton to a triangular track win over Palmer and St. Edward as he won the 100 in :10.5, the 220 in :23.1 and the broad jump at 21.1.

Jeff Keller was another top performer for the winners as he pushed the shot put 53-3/4 and won the discus at 124-8.

3-Year-Old Filly
Native Street, a 3-year-old gray filly, is a daughter of Native Dancer—Beaver Street. She was bred by C. F. Kieser at Ocala, Fla.

Buckpasser's Jockey
Panama's Braulio Baeza rode Buckpasser in all the 2-year-old champion's 11 races during 1965. He won nine of them.

Florida games went over the right field fences, aided by extremely heavy winds.

The Cubs' Ernie Broglio held California to three hits through seven innings and Ted Abernathy completed the shutout with two hitless innings. Catcher Chris Krug paced the Chicago attack with four hits and three RBIs.

Leon Wagner and Max Alvis each drove in two runs as Cleveland topped the Dodgers behind the strong pitching of Sam McDowell, the American League strikeout king last season, fanned seven and yielded one run on five hits over the first six innings.

Right-Hander Larsen Put On Waiver List
Miami, Fla. (U)—The Baltimore Orioles asked waivers Monday on Don Larsen preparatory to giving the veteran pitcher his unconditional release.

Personnel director Harry Dalton said he had been unable to line up another big league job for the 36-year-old right-hander who pitched the only World Series no-hitter and a 2-0 victory for the New York Yankees against Brooklyn in 1956.

Garibaldi, Wade Sent To Minors
Phoenix, Ariz. (U)—The San Francisco Giants sent non-roster pitchers Bob Garibaldi and Bill Wade back to the minors Monday.

Garibaldi got a bonus of around $130,000 for signing in 1962, the most ever paid by the Giants. He later developed severe arm trouble and was disabled for most of 1964.

The Giants risked losing Garibaldi this year by not including him on the varsity roster. But no other club wanted him. He and Wade, a former Pittsburgh bonus boy, probably will play this season for the Phoenix Giants of the Pacific Coast League.

REDS SELL KEOUGH TO ATLANTA BRAVES
Tampa, Fla. (U)—The Cincinnati Reds sold outfielder Marty Keough Monday to the Atlanta Braves for an undisclosed amount of cash and a player to be named later.

Prices Rise Again In Stock Market

New York (U) — The stock market rallied Monday for the third straight session amid signs that the big institutional investors were buying blue chips.

Volume was 9.4 million shares, compared with 9.06 million Friday.

The Dow Jones industrial average advanced 6.57 to 337.86.

AT&T was the most conspicuous example of a comeback by the long-neglected blue chips. AT&T already had begun its rebound on Friday when it rose 1 1/2. Monday it advanced 2 1/4 to 59 1/2 on turning it fourth most-active stock.

Over of 135,600 shares, making utilities as a group made modest progress. Such bread-and-butter groups as steels, motors, coppers, oils, rails and farm implements, however, made respectable advances.

In an unusual display of all-around market health, these groups got in gear with the flamboyant color televisions, other electronics, airlines, aerospace issues, office equipment and other glamor stocks which have provided the biggest gains in the 1966 market.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 2.8 to 346.3 with industrials up 3.5, rails up 2.7 and utilities up .4.

Of 141 issues traded, 122 rose, 31 fell, 14 1/2 were unchanged.

Among the 15 most-active stocks, 11 rose, 3 fell, 1 1/2 were unchanged.

SC Johnson, the most-active stock for the second straight session, rising 1/2 to 107.25 on 172,000 shares.

Boeing, up 1/2 to 101 1/2, and General Electric, up 1/2 to 34 1/2, were among the top gainers.

Prices advanced on the American Stock Exchange with volume at 3.0 million shares compared with 3.36 million Friday.

Standard Oil of New Jersey, up 1/2 to 48 1/2, and U.S. Treasury bonds were mixed.

Steen Says 14 Towns To Receive Federal Outdoor Recreation Funds

State Game Commission Director Mel Steen said Monday 14 Nebraska communities are scheduled to receive federal and state financial aid before July to develop outdoor recreation facilities.

He commented while signing the contract authorizing a federal-state grant to Millard, the first Nebraska town to receive funds under the 1964 Federal Land and Water Conservation Fund Act.

Steen said Omaha, Lincoln, Alliance, Crofton, Howells, Kimball, Millard, Mullen, Scottsbluff, Hastings, Henderson, Papillion and Ewing also are scheduled to receive funds during the present fiscal year.

"Of all the states in the nation, I doubt any state has gone as far in developing participation by political subdivisions as has Nebraska," Steen said. "We recognize there is a great need for this type of development on the local level."

50% to 25% Under the act and a 1965 state law, federal funds pay 50% of approved local projects, with the state and political subdivision paying 25% each.

Millard received $10,000 in federal funds and $5,000 in state funds to acquire a 13-acre park site south of the community.

Steen said the response of Nebraska communities has been astounding.

He said 95 political subdivisions have indicated interest in the program, and 48 of them have submitted projects which obligate a total of $4.1 million in federal and state funds through the 1969 fiscal year.

Steen said the fund shortage has forced him to ask the U.S. Bureau of Outdoor Recreation to approve a special $500,000 grant to Omaha so the city can acquire a 340-acre tract for a regional metropolitan park.

Essay Test Winners Make Teacher Happy

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

An Omaha teacher beamed with pride Monday as Gov. Frank Morrison presented awards to the five state winners in the 1966 theme contest sponsored by the Governor's Committee for Employment of the Handicapped.

Three were students of Mrs. Ardith Miller, who teaches creative writing and literature at Omaha North High School. Mrs. Miller's pupils—Karen Blum, James Vorel and Mary Merkle—placed first, third and fifth, respectively, in the state contest. All are juniors.

Trip To Washington

Miss Blum, the top winner, was given an all-expense trip to Washington, D.C.

Second place winner was Patricia Tisdale, a Lincoln High School junior, who received a scholarship to Nebraska Wesleyan University.

Susan Masid, a senior from Scottsbluff Senior High School, was the fourth-place winner.

"Isn't it just wonderful," said Mrs. Miller, when congratulated on having three winners.

She said she tries to utilize as many contests as possible in her creating writing classes.

Ability Counts

"There's more incentive to the student in his writing. This contest's theme—'Ability Counts'—was a particularly good one for creative writing."

In presenting the winners, Morrison said, "All human beings are handicapped—mentally or physically—to a greater or lesser degree."

"All mankind is handicapped by ignorance," he said. "So it's a relative thing."

"This nation must see all citizens are able to use their skills in the most productive manner possible," he said. "Too long we've been unmindful of using the abilities of the handicapped."

Services For Franz Radke, Attorney, To Be Wednesday

Funeral services will be held Wednesday for Franz C. Radke, 76, a prominent Nebraska attorney, who died Sunday.

Mr. Radke, of 1335 So. 40th, lived in Lincoln since 1932.

Mr. Radke served as private secretary to Gov. Charles Bryan during the F. C. Radke governor's first term and for part of his third term. In 1931 he was appointed general counsel for the state banking department, a position he occupied six years. Later he was general counsel for the judicial bank receivership department. He was also a member of the constitutional convention in 1920.

Mr. Radke was born on a farm in Cedar County on June 23, 1889, and was educated in the Hartington high school and the Wayne State Teachers College, then the Nebraska Normal College. He taught school for a year, then enrolled at the University of Nebraska.

While a student at the University he worked summers on farms and also as an organizer of the State Farmers Union.

He received his bachelor of arts degree in 1914 and three years later won his law degree from the college. His senior year was interrupted by a successful candidacy for the Legislature from Cedar County.

He served in the Army during World War I as an officer in the coast artillery and as a trial judge in general courts martial.

He served as county judge of Johnson County from 1924 to 1929. He was Tecumseh city attorney in 1929 and 1930.

Mr. Radke was a member of the Lincoln Bar Association, the Nebraska State Bar Association, and Knights of Pythias. He was a Mason, a member of Scottish Rite, Shrine Craftsman Lodge 314, past president of the Lincoln Rifle and Pistol Club; and a member of the Hiram Club, the Open Forum, the Interprofessional Institute, and Kiwanis Club.

He is survived by a son, Mark F. of Columbus, Ga.; a daughter Joanna (Mrs. Howard F.) Cook of Evanston, Ill.; a sister, Marie (Mrs. Lee) Porter, of Wynot; and two grandsons.

American Loan Application OK'd

State Banking Director Byron Dunn said Monday he has approved an application of the American Loan Plan, Inc., of Hastings to open a new loan office in Holdrege.

The application had been opposed at a hearing last Tuesday by established loan firms in Holdrege.

However, Dunn said the application was a sound one. He said it would help to improve the economic growth of the community.

The Home Loan Corp. of Grand Island has offered to surrender its inactive Holdrege loan license, providing the American Loan plan application received approval.

HAGEMEISTER SAYS HE'LL GO TO BRIEFINGS

Republican gubernatorial candidate Bruce Hagemelster of Hemingford said Monday he will accept Gov. Frank Morrison's invitation to attend briefings on the operation of state government.

Hagemelster thus became the first GOP candidate to indicate a willingness to meet with the Democratic governor and his department heads for briefing purposes.

All three Democratic candidates, Lt. Gov. Philip Sorenson, State Sen. Jules Burbach of Crofton and Henry Ley of Wayne, have accepted Morrison's invitation.

Contacted in Omaha, Hagemelster said he is "most happy to go. He's the governor, and I'd be pleased to accept his invitation to explain some of the duties and to show candidates around."

Hagemelster said "there is no reason not to accept such an invitation."

NSIA Members Vote To Oppose New Elementary School Rules

By LUCILLE HUTCHINSON
Star Staff Writer

Proposed new rules and regulations concerning elementary schools were unanimously opposed Monday by members of the Nebraska School Improvement Association (NSIA).

NSIA members, in town for a hearing on the rules at the State Board of Education, voted to oppose such rules "in any form" that are based upon the "principle of establishing rules and regulations" so that schools can be controlled.

Nearly 150 persons indicated their agreement with NSIA Executive Secretary S. H. Brauer Jr. that "we should go into the hearing on the principle that (the rules are) local control versus state control, regimentation versus freedom."

Urges United Front

"Unless we can make a united front, we are not going to be effective," he said. He addressed spokesmen of county meetings on the proposed rules and other NSIA members.

Registrars for the meeting said 600 were expected to be in Lincoln for the hearing Tuesday.

The hearing of the state board is on rules for elementary schools written by the State Department of Education for classifying districts as operating approved schools. Districts failing to meet the rules cannot be dissolved, except by school patrons or the Legislature, but, according to the State Department, the schools will be operating without being classified as approved.

The purpose of the rules is to provide direction and guidelines for board members, administrators and patrons in the improvement of educational opportunities for elementary pupils, the state department said.

Got To Try

Brauer told the NSIA members that "maybe we can't stop it completely, but we've got to try."

Later he added, "If rules have to be adopted at all," it would be better to adopt them in their present form. "Then we can go to the Legislature and get some relief by statute," he said.

Several spokesmen pointed out that persons they represented objected to the rules primarily because "it is the idea that somebody down here is telling us what to do."

Another patron complained that "they can't know our own unique situations," citing the long distances children must travel in western Nebraska. "We don't like the infraction on our responsibility as parents," it was noted.
